Villanelle. Do not go gentle into that good night is an example (and probably the most famous English example) of a villanelle, a form of poetry first conceived in seventeenth-century France. Today, it is a, uncommon poetic form, but an effective one when used properly. The villanelle has a rigid form to it: it is a poem written in six stanzas, where the first five are tercets and the final one ...

Alexandria - Witch Hill - There is a tree in the middle of the road in Wilder where 3 witches were supposedly hung, and there is a curse on the tree to whom ever tries to cut it down, or spits on it. I have been to this place many times, and taken pictures, and many times even though it was a clear night, the pictures have come back covered in white blotches.
