Scientific control studies in medicine that attempt to determine whether something is a significant causal factor in producing a specific effect often use placebos as a control. In most of these studies, the placebo is defined as an inert substance, and it is pitted against an active substance to see if there is any significant difference in outcome in different groups.

This site is about seeing through the illusion of separation and waking up to the boundless wholeness that is all there is. Joan Tollifson has an affinity with Advaita, Zen Buddhism and radical nonduality but has her own unique and original expression. She points to the simplicity of what is, as it is -- the ever-present, ever-changing seamlessness of being.
