Historically, building a system that can answer natural language questions about any image has been considered a very ambitious goal. Imagine a system that, given the image below, could answer these questions: What is in the image? Are there any humans? What sport is being played? Who has the ball? How many players are in the image? Who are the teams?

Introduction to Visual Question Answering | Tryolabs Blog

I would have preferred to avoid a different label but when I tried either "artificial intelligence" or "machine learning" both proved to be too narrow: when I called it "artificial intelligence" too many people were distracted by whether certain companies were "true AI," and when I called it "machine learning," many thought I wasn't doing justice to the more "AI-esque ...
