Biology As Ideology The Doctrine

An ideology is a collection of normative beliefs and values that an individual or group holds for other than purely epistemic reasons. The term is especially used to describe a system of ideas and ideals which forms the basis of economic or political theory and policy. In political science it is used in a descriptive sense to refer to political belief systems.

Biology and political orientation is a concept based on a number of studies that have found that biology can be linked with political orientation. This means that biology is a possible factor in political orientation, but may also mean that the ideology a person identifies with changes a person's ability to perform certain tasks. Many of the studies linking biology to politics remain ...

Race - Hereditarian ideology and European constructions of race: Inheritance as the basis of individual social position is an ancient tenet of human history, extending to some point after the beginnings of agriculture (about 10,000 bce). Expressions of it are found throughout the world in kinship-based societies where genealogical links determine an individual's status, rights, and obligations.

You-go-girlism also disincentivizes self-improvement. It may feel good to tell women that they're all beautiful, no matter how they look—or how fat they are—but that's simply not true, by any measure. Beauty, contrary to popular belief, is not in the eye of the beholder and, like anything else worthwhile, requires work. But, if you think you already "look good" 20 pounds ...
