In an open-loop controller, also called a non-feedback controller, the control action from the controller is independent of the "process output", which is the process variable that is being controlled. It does not use feedback to determine if its output has achieved the desired goal of the input command or process "set point".. There are a large number of open loop controls, such as on/off ...

The clothing production process has been described in Fig. 5.1. It starts from the conceptualization phase, passes through design development, manufacturing, supply chain, and retailing till it reaches to the consumers (Nayak et al., 2015a). In the conceptualization stage a designer conceptualizes a theme based on the forecasting of trends in the color, fabrics, silhouette, and trims.
