Autoportrait Edouard Leve

In this brilliant and sobering self-portrait, Edouard Levé hides nothing from his readers, setting out his entire life, more or less at random, in a string of declarative sentences. Autoportrait is a physical, psychological, sexual, political, and philosophical triumph.

Autoportrait by Édouard Levé - Goodreads

Autoportrait by Edouard Levé is notable for attempting to say all the things about a person that are not usually said. The book is simply a series of declarative sentences that lasts for 117 pages. The sentences are all ostensibly about Levé himself; they lack any discernable order and they are contained within one book-length paragraph.

Autoportrait by Edouard Levé | Quarterly Conversation

In this brilliant and sobering self-portrait, Edouard Levé hides nothing from his readers, setting out his entire life, more or less at random, in a string of declarative sentences. "Autoportrait" is a physical, psychological, sexual, political, and philosophical triumph.

Édouard Levé was a French writer, artist and photographer.

Édouard Levé - Wikipedia

Autoportrait, the brief, uncompromising memoir that Levé composed during that same trip, is a variation on this aesthetic in prose. The book is composed entirely of brisk declarative sentences about the author in the first person, often without any discernible narrative coherence.

Self-Portraiture As Landscape: Édouard Levé's Autoportrait ...

Autoportrait is an archive of such fragments, a single paragraph of short sentence after short sentence offering impressions and judgments, tallies and memories. Yes, the presentation is practically pointillist -- and, yes, that cover really suggests what you're getting (except perhaps that the text is more than just black and white) -- with few of the sentences even going on at any length, and fewer observations or memories presented in more than a single sentence.

Autoportrait - Edouard Levé - Complete Review

Following the steps of Suicide, which last year was longlisted for the Best Translated Book Award, Levé's Autoportrait (2005; tr. from the French by Lorin Stein, 2012) was recently named a finalist for the Best Translated Book Award. When I reviewed Suicide (), I began with a quote from a piece by Levé that The Paris Review published, "When I look at a Strawberry, I Think of a Tongue ...

Edouard Levé: Autoportrait - The Mookse and the Gripes

Thematically, and also narratively, Autoportrait is a precursor to Levé's final work, Suicide. Even more so than with Leve's other works, these two are intended to be read together. While Autoportrait is written in the first person, Suicide is a second-person novel. Like its predecessor, Suicide is based in fact.

A Review of Edouard Levé's "Autoportrait" - Words Without ...

Edouard Levé, né en 1965, le premier jour de l'année et suicidé en 2007, le 15 octobre, est un artiste conceptuel, peintre, photographe et écrivain. Autoportrait est une suite de phrases sans lien toujours évident entre elles, qui, cependant, mises bout à bout dessine un portrait assez précis de l'auteur.

Autoportrait - Edouard Levé - Babelio

Il s'agit ici, ni plus ni moins, et comme le titre l'indique, d'un autoportrait. Ainsi l'auteur ne nous cache-t-il rien de ce qui le constitue, le désigne au regard des autres comme au sien, tant sur le plan physique que psychologique, voire sentimental ou sexuel, politique, philosophique, esthétique... Et il joue complètement le jeu.

Editions P.O.L - Autoportrait - Edouard Levé

"I don't write in the morning, my brain isn't up to it yet, I don't write in the afternoon, I'm too sad, I write from five o'clock on, I need to have been awake a long time, my body relaxed from a day's fatigue."

Autoportrait Quotes by Édouard Levé - Goodreads

'Autoportrait': a memoir, Edouard Levé-style. The use of "You" makes the book read like a love letter to a dear dead friend, but the second person address can also seem like an invocation of the self. This is a slippery "You" that helps the reader sidestep an awful truth: Levé hanged himself ten days after handing in the manuscript for Suicide.

Chelsea Hodson I Could Live Without Speaking After Autoportrait by Edouard Levé Introduction Photo by Molly Matalon. In 2017, when I was still working on my book of essays, Tonight I'm Someone Else, I reread Autoportrait by Edouard Levé, a French writer who died in 2007. Each time I've turned to his work over the years, I become inspired all over again by the quiet intimacy of his books.
